Project Title: Tom and Jerry

I would like to build a website that has multiple pages to organize the long history of this show. A navigation bar at the top will enable easy access to different topics and organize content nicely. To emulate/reference to the show, I would like to have a playful tone to the website through the use of color and type choice.

- Homepage - introduce a summary of the plot and a short explanation of the characters with pictures of each of them
- History (1940 - present) - there have been lots of changes in how characters are drawn and how the show is presented to the public (mention here what was added and removed from the show over the years as well as controversial elements of the show which were addressed in the future)
- List of Theatrical Shorts and Television Shows - please include the date, the number of episodes, and production company
- Other Media - other than television, please demonstrate how these characters are further explored (comics, musicals, etc)
- People - List the names of the directors, producers, writers, people who starred in the shows, and music producers like the ending credits scene of a movie
- Sources - list the Wikipedia Page and other sources used
